Two adjacent preserves serve as one: ACRES' Maplewood Nature Preserve and the LaGrange County Parks Nature Preserve. The county preserve has a visitor center, a maple syrup camp in spring and a variety of year-round programs. Visitors may hike trails in both preserves. Common species of trees include sugar maple and butternut, and a variety of birds and wildflowers abound, the latter including crane-fly, puttyroot and a display of white trillium that nearly covers the ground in spring.
